Interpretation trail, one of the «Sentiers Retrouvés» (rediscovered paths) supported by the Association Déclan'

For centuries, men and women opened us up, marked us out, walked along us... Then they rather forgot about us ! The «Sentiers Retrouvés» bring to people's notice paths which show to advantage our unspoiled landscapes, forgotten heritage and real human adventures ; they promote the sharing of knowledge and open people's eyes to these things.

Cf. page 12 « Circuit des Falaises de Faycelles ». There is another path around the commune of St Perdoux (not included in this guide). Also worth exploring.

PREDEIGNES AND ITS BELL TOWER

In the centre of the village stands the church. Its imposing size makes it a landmark for those crossing the hills of the Ségala. Tradition has it that «Penderenia» was founded on the orders of Pepin le Bref in 838. Its forest provided timber for the buildings of the nearby town of Figeac. A few monks settled here and the church was built. Because the times were not exactly peaceful, they constructed a defensive bell tower. The village inhabitants could shelter there, which is exactly what they did during the Hundred Years' War, when the English invaded as far as the Ségala.
